Sun Spotter

Sun Spotter is a free solar application that allows you to grab an image of the Sun fast. It's a free and lightweight application that comes with a small and intuitive graphical interface and lots of additional features that you can use for your own needs. The application lets you use multiple tools for grabbing images, you can view the images of the Sun taken by the Solar and Heliospheric Observatory satellite, and even grab images taken by the Extreme Ultraviolet Imaging Telescope. The application also comes with the option to view an image of the Sun taken with the Large Angle Spectrometric Coronagraph at a wavelength of 171, 195, 284 or 304 angstroms. You can also save the image on your computer, along with all other images displayed inside the application. Sun Spotter -- What is It? The Solar and Heliospheric Observatory (SOHO) is a satellite whose main purpose is to provide information about the Sun. It was launched in 1995 and comes with a dual camera system composed of the Solar Ultraviolet Measurements of Emitted Radiation (SUMER) and the Cosmic EUV Experiment (COUP) that provide images of the Sun's corona at different wavelengths. The SUMER section of the satellite allows you to observe sunspots and to take images of the Sun's corona at a wavelength of 171, 195, 284 or 304 angstroms. The EUV section of the satellite, on the other hand, lets you view the Sun's photosphere as well as the temperature distribution of the Sun's upper atmosphere. The purpose of this application is to show you the images of the Sun taken by the SOHO satellite and to provide you with all the additional information that is included inside the images. Sun Spotter Overview: The application is really small and light. It doesn't have any customization options, but it comes with a small and easy-to-use graphical interface that you can use for controlling all tools at hand. The application has a nice design that makes it really easy to understand. There are four main tools at hand, the Continuum tool lets you load the images of the Sun taken by the Michelson Doppler Imager, and you can use the Custom tool for getting additional images of the Sun that are not included inside the files stored in the application. Sun Spotter is also able to view the Sun's corona at different wavelengths, this tool lets you view the Sun's corona taken with the Extreme Ultraviolet 1d6a3396d6

A 3D animated screensaver that features Earth and Sun in a state of constant motion. Stars and planets appear in rotation over the heavenly bodies. Computer NetWork Security Utility Description: The Computer Network Security Utility (CNSU) is an utility that helps users to protect their computers from hackers or system viruses through a process known as Intrusion Detection. CNSU works by running an expert program that reads several different types of detection techniques. It continually monitors any network activity that is performed by an unauthorized user. CNSU is able to detect if a hacker is trying to access the network in an illegal manner, such as by trying to gain unauthorized access to private files or by using your computer as a virus-spreading machine. CNSU also offers a way for you to learn more about any detected infections. It provides a detailed description of the activity, so you can be better prepared to deal with it in the future. CNSU: The Advanced Intrusion Detection System Description: This advanced network security tool allows you to scan and protect your home or business computers from malicious programs that are usually introduced through file-sharing networks, e-mail, and other online sources. CNSU makes use of a variety of different protection methods and techniques to detect and eliminate most types of computer viruses and other unauthorized access techniques. It will block and remove known malicious programs as well as allow you to run and remove spyware programs. All of this information is provided in a user-friendly manner through detailed notifications and messages that are displayed when new activities are detected. CNSU will periodically scan your computer for viruses and other malware with this tool. When CNSU detects a problem, it will notify you through the notification area and a window will open up for you to deal with the issue. It is important to remember that CNSU will not and cannot protect your computer against all types of malware programs. It will only alert you to known and active malware that is actively attacking your system. This tool is especially useful when working from a corporate environment, especially if you are an employee of that company. These warnings can help you identify and prevent problems from occurring and keep your computer running in optimal condition. CNSU: The Advanced Intrusion Detection System Main Features: - Keeps your computer free of viruses, spyware, and other malicious software. - Checks for your computer for viruses and other malicious software. - Supports a wide variety of file-sharing and other
